WE NOMINATE

Two of this country's perceptive social scientists, Frederick Harris Harbison and Melvin Marvin Tumin, who over the next fortnight will be playing conspicuous roles in one of the major international conferences of this decade—The United Nations Conference on "The Application of Science and Technology for the Benefit of the Less Developed Areas," During the period February 4-20, in Geneva, Switzerland, representatives of some 75 nations, including all of the emergent states, will gather to hear experts such as the 51-year old Harbison, Director of Princeton University's Industrial Relations Section, and sociologist Tumin, age 41, discuss topics ranging from "Human Resources" to "Social Problems of Development and Urbanization."

Looking upon the Geneva sessions as key opportunities for broadening the world's understanding of America's capacities, potential, and concern for "newly freed" peoples, the United States Government has devoted more than a year to its preparations and has marshaled a crack 100-member delegation. For instance, Harbison, currently based on the West Coast at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, will be paired with representatives of government and non-profit research institutions, while Tumin's panel associates number anthropologist Margaret Mead, a spokesman for the National Science Foundation, and specialists from Howard, Columbia, Cornell and Yale.

In recent years both Harbison, who thinks little of winging from Princeton to Tokyo and from there to the West Coast of Africa, and Tumin have made far-reaching contributions in their areas of specialization. The former's researches on man-power problems on five continents have been acclaimed in Washington and in capitals around the globe. To Tumin belongs the credit for carrying forward pioneering analyses of such highly volatile social questions as "Desegregation: Resistance and Readiness," "Social Class and Social Change in Puerto Rico," and "Intergroup Attitudes of Youth in England, France and Germany."

It was in 1955 that Harbison was called back to Princeton where he had won honors as a member of the Class of 1934, as a graduate student, and as a research assistant of marked promise in the Section he now heads. A member of the faculty at the University of Chicago for the previous 15 years and a motivating force in the development of that institution's Industrial Relations Center, Harbison at the time his Princeton appointment was publicly announced was on leave overseas making comparative studies of management and labor problems under a continuing joint project sponsored by Harvard, M.I.T., Chicago, Princeton and the University of California.

The versatile, Newark-born Tumin, a Princetonian since 1947 and a product of the University of Wisconsin and Northwestern University, was one of the first social scientists to underscore the significance of the "role and quality of leaders in the process of desegregation" in the Southern States. In 1956-57 he and his research associates took a hard look at Guilford County, North Carolina, and concluded: "Between two sets of ardent partisans stands an uncommitted, middle-ground majority—a majority that can unquestionably be encouraged to resist desegregation by every technique available or can be influenced by respected and legitimate leaders to move towards peaceful social change."

For their participation in an undertaking on which many leaders of the Free World are pinning high hopes; for helping bolster the basically American conception that higher education is "education for use"; for their understanding of the basic issues now confronting nascent nations; they are TOWN TOPICS' nominees as

"WE FACE THREAT"

Of Standardization, Asphalt. Some old-timers and some newcomers raised their voices in Princeton this week urging that the community's unique qualities be preserved against a variety of threatening pressures.

Minot C. Morgan, Jr., resident of Princeton since 1930 and post-war mayor of the Borough, has sent to the Borough Planning Board a closely-reasoned, desperate plea to save Princeton from "gradual, but relentless destruction by the automobile."

Iwo young newcomers, dwellers in Princeton for a total of four years, spoke to the Residents of Princeton urging adoption of some plan that would preserve old buildings of architectural and historic importance.

Ernest J. Kump, a resident of Palo Alto, Calif., chosen to be architect of the new Borough school, told a Monday night audience of 75 Borough residents that any new design should draw upon the ruins, traditions and even the ecology of a community for its design.

Down With the Auto! In his letter to the Planning Board, Mr. Morgan refers to the Maine-Virginia megalopolis, and says that throughout most of this stretch, there has been a constant retreat before "the onslaughts of the rateable boys and the asphalt tide. . . I believe it is more fruitful to attack, and to attack again, the enemies of the uniqueness that we cherish."

Mr. Morgan asks that, to cut the population density, the Borough extend the "Open Space" philosophy to the center of town by allowing:

No major expansion of the commercial area of the Borough.
No high-rise buildings, either commercial or residential.
Tax relief for property owners who agree to keep their land in grass. Mr. Morgan cites the proposed Palmer Square Inc. building to go up next to Hinksons.)

He also states that the only solution to the problem of "automobile strangulation and endless acres of asphalt" is to exclude cars and trucks that are merely driving through Princeton on their way to another destination, and also to exclude cars driven into Princeton and left all day by people who work here.

Such a policy would leave the town to drivers who use Princeton streets for their own daily business: driving children to school, shopping, making deliveries in a truck, and so on.

Mr. Morgan believes that eventually a by-pass and loop road will take care of cars and trucks "passing through." The real offenders, he declares, are the people who drive into Princeton and leave their cars where they work.

"It is time to question the apparently God-given or Constitutional right of any man to drive to work in a car occupied only by himself, to a piece of asphalt within a hundred yards of his office provided by his municipality or by his employer at the insistence of his municipality. . . This is ridiculous."

Round-Up

The 3% sales tax advocated for New Jersey by the State Tax Policy Commission earlier this month will not become a reality if Gov. Hughes' proposal for a $750 million bond issue is approved... an affirmative vote would be essential in a referendum, presumably next November.

According to the Governor's plan, the bond proceeds would be spent at the rate of $150 in each of the next five years in this fashion: $70 for state highway construction, $25 million for higher education facilities, $20 million for state aid to counties and municipalities for road construction, $16 million for local school construction aid, $12 million for institutions and agencies construction; consulting for grade crossings, $5 elimination and $2 million for community colleges.

Gov. Hughes' proposal is to pay off the bond issue by retiring existing New Jersey Turnpike Bonds by 1972, and thereafter applying the estimated $42 million in annual Turnpike revenues to interest and amortization of the $750 million issue... "I cannot conrazed by the University.

In fact, it was the destruction of 44 Washington Road that lit the fire. Both Mrs. Gibbons and Mrs. Greiff felt that Princeton should act before other architectural beauties were destroyed, and they took their research and ideas to the Residents of Princeton.

Make a Plan. They told the ders which sustain these programs have been upheld by the Supreme Court under the "general welfare" clause of the Constitution.

There are various ways of

A "Fine Arts Commission," or similar body, consisting of architects, real estate agents, members of a historical society and the like, could be established to oversee whatever policies were adopted, and to advise zoning board, mayor and council.

Anticipating some criticism
for excessive idealism, Mrs.
Gibbons and Mrs. Greiff say calmly: "Princeton's appearance is a great economic asset to the community."

What Kind of School? The question of appearance was raised again Monday night when Ernest Kump outlined his architectural philosophy to a special meeting of the Borough P.T.A.

A classic style that can ride through time, combined with a flexible design that can accommodate almost any change in educational practices: this is the kind of school Mr. Kump would like to design for Borough children (and maybe for Township children, too, in time, that's part of the flexibility.)

The architect, asked to charac-terize Princeton as a community, said that brick and stone belonged here and low, pitched roofs that give a sense of warmth and security against a storm.

First roofs are fine in the southwest where mesas and broad horizons are the rule, he said, but they are out of place in the hilly, forested northeast. Redwood is equally ill at ease, he added.

This is not a factory community, Mr. Kump pointed out, and therefore should not have a school that looks like a factory. "Let's not get carried away by the functional approach," he commented, adding "I hate windowless classrooms."

Mr. Kump made it plain, however, that he does not believe in eclectic copying, even though he admires classic forms.

Referring to the need for an adaptable school plant, Mr.
Kump said he would look to the future and design a school that could accommodate audiovisual aids of any kind, including Teletext, with facilities for adding to the flow of electricity or gas to a selection of oratory without tearing down the building to increase the volume.

"Technical gymnastics are important, but not for their own sake," Mr. Kump said.
"Regionalism is what we believe in. California or New York solutions will not do for Princeton. What we want to do is to capture the character and personality of a region in the school we build."

P.U.C. APPROVES SALE
Of Water Company.
The Elizabethtown Water Company, having received a U.C. approval to purchase controlling interest in the Princeton Water Company, has already taken out the dowsing rod and begun a search for new water supplies.

The Public Utilities Commission approved on Thursday the transfer of all shares of the Princeton Water Company to Princeton University and Princeton Theological Seminary to Elizabethtown, denying a request by several Princeton residents for a 60-90 day delay. The delay had been requested so that Borough and Township could study the possibility of public ownership of the Princeton Water Company.

In denying the delay, the P.U.C. said that the question of public-private ownership was irrelevant. Members of the commission added that a delay might mean that improvements in the water system would have to be put off. This could impair the quality of water service during the hot summer months, P.U.C. members said.

At the public hearing, Mayor Henry Patterson's position as vice-president of Elizabethtown had been referred to, and the P.U.C. said that, although the possibility of "conflict-of-interest" could not be denied, "it is not a proper issue in this proceeding, in the absence of any prohibiting ordinance." A utility company officer of a utility company from holding public office in a community where his company or an affiliated company provides service.

Immediately following the approval, Elizabethtown began what it calls a "crash program" in Princeton. Work has begun on a new well at the foot of Broadmead, and the drill has already penetrated below the three and one half foot frost line and is whirling down toward the 100-foot mark, engineers said.

5 Bulldozers + 4 Terrers = 1 Rhubarb

The first annual basketball game between the Borough and Township of Princeton will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Valley Road School gymnasium. If there are any survivors, it may not be the last.

The Borough Bulldozers confidently announced that they would be beaten by the Township Terrers. The Terrers, however, were not so confident. The Terrers, consisting of Mayor Henry Patterson, Councilman Peter (the Gammer) McCrohan, Bob McAvie, Harry Kahny, Skitch Donahoe, Charles Harris, Ralph Procacone, and Administrator Robert Mooney, who has promised that he can make the score come out right under any circumstances.

The Township Terrers, noting regretfully that they cannot turn back the clock to the days when Ken Fairclough was almost a letter in the alphabet, refused to discontinue their line-up in advance. The Terrers originally planned to field the smallest team they could muster on the theory that they could run up the points while the Borough Bulldozers died laughing. The plan leaked out, however, and new strategy is being hatched.

Gordon Griffin, who serves as attorney for both municipalities and therefore would be properly equipped to adjudicate all rhubarbs, has drafted a new rule. Frank Bunn, only man to hold office as mayor in both municipalities, is expected to resume his familiar post as time-keeper.

Both teams claim the right to use Princeton coach Butch Van Breda Kolff, one-time member of the New York Knickerbockers. Mooney admits the opposition got to him first but reports that when Butch saw the material in the Township, he came over to the Borough, ready to get enough problems at the University.

Both teams claim sole rights to Bill Bradley, Princeton's protective all-American. "He lives in the Borough, so he'll play for the Borough," Mayor Patterson declared, forgetting of his membership on the Joint Committee for Municipal Operations.

Township Administrator Joseph Nini would not comment on the rumor that the Terrers might be recruited by a team known elsewhere as the Boston Celtics. The Terrers, however, said to have obtained a ruling that since none of the Terrers live in the hole known as the Borough, they belong to the doughnut.

Engineers said. A minimum of three new wells will be drilled before summer, and several existing wells will be "reconditioned."

On Monday, Elizabethtown engineers began to test and examine the chemical equipment at the filtration plant, to see how the quality of water can be improved. Engineers hope to increase the plant's capacity also.

Improvements in the water company system are expected to cost in the neighborhood of $1,600,000.

LOT PURCHASE PLANNED
From Lahiere-Kane. Borough Council has taken the first step toward purchase of the Lahiere-Kane property at Tulane and Spring Streets for public parking. Pressed by a time limit on the land option, Council passed an ordinance at a special meeting last week authorizing the expenditure of $187,000 for the showrooms and garage. Of this figure, $187,000 would be raised through a bond issue.

Council's action is in accordance with a "parking space" suggested by the trustees of the public library. The library wishes to build on a section of the parking lot at Witherspoon and Wiggins Streets. It suggested that an equivalent amount of parking space could be obtained through purchase of the Lahiere-Kane property.

The Borough is steadily acquiring land for parking in this area. It owns the property on Witherspoon Street formerly belonging to the Lamplighter restaurant.

The Lahiere-Kane purchase would add all buildings on Spring Street from Tulane to the Benson Building on the corner of Witherspoon. On Tulane Street, it would acquire from Lahiere-Kane the present garage site which extends to the R. F. Johnson showrooms and Verbeyst Cleaners. The Borough estimates that $176,000 will cover the cost of buildings and land, and $21,000 will be needed for demolition, paving and installation of parking meters. A public hearing on the ordinance will be held at 8 p.m. on February 12 in Borough Hall.

THE MAYOR REPORTS

At Weekly Conference. The state highway department has informed the Borough that it will go ahead with the Avalonpark interchange traffic light, though the man on the telephone gave no date.

Mayor Henry Patterson reported the notification at his weekly press conference on Tuesday and said that the cost of the light would be "slightly less" than budgeted. The state has said that work would probably begin in February.

Lawyers have been meeting to unravel the legalities involved in the proposed exchange of Hall-Miss Fine's School property trade, Mr. Patterson said, and have expressed "cautious optimism" that the trade can indeed be worked out, given enough time. The Borough is eager to go ahead "as soon as possible," Mayor Patterson repeated. Plans call for exchanging Miss Fine's, except for the new gymnasium addition, and erecting a new Borough Hall on the site.

Two budget meetings have been held between Borough and Township officials on fire, the library, sewers, the incinerator and other matters of mutual concern. The Mayor reported, "They were long, involved and a rewarding meeting," he said, "without a single harsh word on either side."

WHIWH WINS APPROVAL

In Court Fight. Radio station WHIWH has won favorable rulings from Superior Court in both suits in which it has been involved. The court ruled on Thursday that there was no evidence on part that WHIWH's towers and lights constituted a "nuisance," as charged in a suit against the station brought by Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kiefer, Pennington-Rock Hill Road, whose Hopewell Township property is next door to the installation. In its second ruling, the court upheld the station's charge that Hopewell Township had acted illegally in revoking the WHIWH building permit.

According to Herbert W. Hubler, 295 Mercer Road, president of Nassau Broadcasting Company, which is building the station, there are no immediate plans for putting WHIWH on the air. Nassau Broadcasting was granted an FCC permit just one year ago, on February 6.

Town Topics, Thursday, January 31, 1963

1962. On March 2, it received a building permit from Hopewell Township and in mid-April, began construction of its six 160-foot towers. On May 9, the Township revoked the building permit, and the Kieffers filed suit shortly thereafter. Nassau Broadcasting then took Hopewell Township to court with a restraining order to get the building permit back again. In July, the company reduced the intensity of its tower lights after approval from Federal authorities.

As a result of WHIWH's legal problems, the FCC has given the station an extension of its permit to April 6, 1963. Apportionment was made for an additional extension, Mr. Hubler indicated.

FOUR TO RETIRE

From Hospital Board. Four members of Princeton Hospital's board of trustees will retire on February 23, the date of the annual meeting of the Princeton Hospital Corporation. They are John H. Wallace, Jr., president, who has been on the board for 18 years; Edgar S. Smith, 15 years; Mr. Donald W. Griffin and Albridge C. Smith, 3rd, both with 12 years of service.

The nominating committee, whose chairman is R. Manning Brown, has named Richard Macgill, a trustee whose term also expires this year, Julius L. Stern, Frederick F. Lawrence, Mrs. Hans Bauer and Charles Mager for election to the board.

Mr. Stern, Mr. Magers and Mr. Lawrence have served on other hospital boards, and Mrs. Bauer has been a Red Cross nurse's aide at Princeton Hospital for almost 15 years. She was an aide during World War II, and headed the Princeton group for several years after its reactivation in 1953.

Mr. Magers was on the board of Middlesex Hospital, New Brunswick, before moving to Princeton, and designed the decorations and furnishings for the remodeled maternity department at Princeton Hospital. A founder of the Blue Cross in northeast Pennsylvania, Mr. Stern was director and vice-president of the Wilkes Barre General Hospital for many years, and secretary of Mercy Hospital there for almost 30 years.

Mr. Lawrence is active in the pottery industry, and was a member of the board of East Liverpool (Ohio) City Hospital before moving to Princeton several years ago.

Nominations to the board will be open until February 14 and may be made only by members of the Hospital Corporation. A nomination must be supported by five voting members of the corporation. Serving with Mr. Brown on the nominating committee are Archie Lummis, Mrs. R. Kenneth Fairman, George Conover and Dr. Robert Garber.

Mrs. A. Myrtle Henson, head of the business education department, resigned to take life more easily. She has taught in the Borough school system for the past 47 years.

Samuel McDowell, art teacher at the Witherspoon School and the high school, asked to be relieved by February 8, citing business reasons. He is the owner of the Country Mouse on Nassau Street.

Glenn Underwood, head of the high school's agriculture department, also resigned largely due to the low enrollment. Emphasis on college preparation has increased during the past five years to the point that only 30 percent of the student body is not planning to go to college.

Two Appointments. Miss Marian Buckland has been named by the board to replace the late Mrs. Alice G. Colvin as third grade teacher in the Nassau Street School. A graduate of the University of British Columbia, Miss Buckland has also studied at Trenton State Teachers College.

Mrs. Patricia R. Korman, a graduate of the Philadelphia Museum College of Art, will replace Mr. McDowell. She has taught at Mayvorn (Pa.) Elementary School, Haddon Heights schools and at the Philadelphia Museum College of Art.

TEACHER IGNORED

By Board Resolution. The Borough Board of Education placed on its minutes last week a resolution honoring the late Mrs. Alice G. Colvin, who taught third grade in the Borough for the past 31 years.

"Be it resolved that we record the loss of our devoted friend and associate. The influence of her kind understanding and dedication will long be reflected in the minds of the boy and girls she molded during her years of faithful service to them."

Mrs. Colvin, 64, had taught school all day on January 9, the day of her death. She returned to her home at 18 Homestead Street, Trenton, and then left to see her doctor.

for complaining of a cold she was found slumped over the wheel of her car in front of his office, a victim of a heart attack.

A graduate of Trenton High School in 1915 and of Trenton Normal School in 1918, Mrs. Colvin had also studied at Columbia University. She taught for seven years at Lincoln High School, Trenton, and for a year in Beverly before coming to Princeton in 1931. She was married to Dr. Lewis S. Lewis, a daughter and three grandchildren.

HELP ME STUDY!

New Center to Open. Boys and girls who need a quiet place to study, books to refer to and the occasional guiding hand of an adult will find all of these in the new Princeton Study Center that will open at 7 p.m. in Dorothea House, Avalon Place at John Street.

All boys and girls in junior or senior high school are invited to come. The Center will be open from 7 to 10 every night, Monday through Thursday, and there will be no charge.

Fifteen adult volunteers have signed up to serve and there will be two study assistants on hand each evening to help students who run into snags as they do their homework.

Dr. Mark M. Heald is chairman of the volunteer staff, assisted by Peter M. Grosz, Simon Moss and Miss Mildred Kaplan as Study Leaders. Each will be responsible for operating the Center one night a week.

Study Assistants, to help with homework if asked, will be Mrs. W. S. Agar, Dr. Kees Bol, Mrs. Rowan Boone, Thomas Caldwell, Mrs. Carolyn Causey, Miss Lucy B. Cullif, Miss Priscilla Hayward, Miss Katherine Lyons, Miss Ruth Nicoll, Dr. Alfred Sommer and Ivan Sublett.

Mrs. Benjamin Shimbarg, who is serving as coordinator for the Center, has announced that floor lamps, foreign language dictionaries and the funds to buy up-to-date reference works are still needed, although several dictionaries, atlases and encyclopedias have been contributed by Princeton residents. Donors may reach Mrs. Shimbarg at WA 4-2295.

OPENINGS REMAIN

In Some Adult Courses. A limited number of students will be able to register for classes at the Princeton Adult School this Thursday, the first night of classes in the second term according to Mrs. George Thomas, chairman of the adult education committee.

Mrs. Thomas said openings remain in the following classes: Children's Reading, Speech Improvement, Watercolor Painting, Mosaic, Playing the Recorder, Sculpture and various others.

Person To Person

A friend was talking about some of the lesser known facts about Alaska. He said, "Did you know, for example, that I am now within 49th state, our border goes to within 54 miles of the Russian border, and that during World War II 31 of the 33 strategic minerals required for defense were found in Alaska?" This gives you an idea why our Navy is so concerned with the defense of that area, with its chain of islands and atolls, and with a total of 85,000 miles of coast line. Along the coast the climate is affected by warm ocean currents and the variation in temperatures is not too unlike much of the United States: from zero in the winter to about eighty degrees in the summer. There is a great future in store for Alaska, and we can assure you of a wonderful and safe future in an excellent car. . . . we have a wide range from which you may select one right now.

News Of The THEATRES

(The following review was written for TOWN TOPICS by Mita Gibbons, Director of the Apuril School of Dance.)

"A BIT OF EVERYTHING"

Offered by Ballet Theatre, A fine audience applauded nicely a fair performance by Ballet Theatre Friday night at Princeton's McCarter. The evening began and ended on the level of work well-executed, with only one great moment and that the dancing of Toni Lander, the Danish ballerina, as Miss Julie in Hjalmar Gullberg's ballet version of the Strindberg play.

Ballet Theatre, a company which has a tendency to be all things to all choreographers, presented here one of its formula programs, opening with a classical ballet of unquestionable reputation, satisfying to all, boring to some, proceeding with an interesting ballet, this time the Strindberg, and finally offering a bravura piece, one of the usual pas de deux, before ending with ballet for entertainment.

The idea is to give the provinces a sampling of what ballet can be, in the hopes that they will want more, next time around. But Princeton is its own town that travels, and has seen companies who have styles of their own, and have had the courage or shall we relent and say "opportunity" to develop them. Ballet Theatre, after years of touring and one-night stands, may have this opportunity in the future now that it has permanent headquarters in Washington, D. C. It is a company that once had a distinct style of its own, especially in the days of Anthony Tudor's choreographic creativity.

TEACHER SAYS "NO!" Schoolmaster Laurence Olivier rebuts his starry-eyed pupil, played by Sarah Miles, in "Term of Trial," now at the Garden.

With better production facilities, style and creativity will surely appear again. The formula program, offering a bit of everything, can make a great evening if there are enough soloists capable of dancing all these difficult pieces of choreography. This was not the case.

We missed Scott Douglas as "The Boy in Green," in "Les Patineurs." He was pulled out from this one of his greatest roles, to dance Jean, the baller in "Miss Julie," which he did very well. But Ivan Allen is not up to the technical brilliance of "Boy" and thus the ballet became a pleasant skating rondo, devoid of the breathtaking quality it once had. Where also was the magical lighting essential to this production, changing its scene from afternoon to dusk, to full moonlight?

Again, in Balanchine's "Theme and Variations," the male lead could not dance the brilliant variations with the dash, accuracy and aplomb required. Eleanor D'Antuono, however, in her part revealed herself as a fine interpreter of this particular style of Balanchine, the many-sided choreographer. She danced too, with that far-reaching projection and confidence of the rising star.

We were embarrassed to see the lovely Lupe Serrano in the Don Quixote pas de deux, which she had danced with Eric Bruhn here five years ago in this very stage. This time she looked as if she were dancing with a college boy better suited to the snickers, blue-jays, finger-snapping style than that of a "dancer noble." The classics are uncompromising and better left alone unless one can do the steps and master the style.

"Miss Julie" Outstanding. The hit of the evening was "Miss Julie." Not difficult technically, excepting for the lifts, this literary ballet depends on expression and interpretation for its strength.

The moods of contempt, loneliness, desire, shame and remorse must all be conveyed through dance. This Toni Lander does.

As the Count's daughter who men but is carried away by the mood of a summer's evening into the arms of the butler, she dances with fire and finesse. Every gesture is expressive.

Her great technical virtuosity, praised in America last year in "Etudes" frees her to move beautifully, often simply. A turn of the head, a look of reproach, hands that tear, hands that supplicate, hands that are tender to the fingertips, a dropping of the shoulders in shame, a vindictive and proud flaunting of a whip, are all part of her dance. In the end, her ancestors appear in a vision to reproach her, a piece of fantasy where faceless beings in strange brilliant garb revive a proud themselves, leaving her out and alone in her distress.

All the supporting parts are well-danced, inspired by the presence of a true artist on stage. Kristine, the cook, danced by Sallie Wilson, skims across the floor in impudent pas de bourree couru; peasants and aristocrats show allegiance to their class, and Scott Douglas as the butler plays well the conflict between temporary desire and deep-seated class hatred.

It is an interesting ballet indeed, if not great, and we came away having seen a ballerina of outstanding dramatic power. Continued on Page 6

"Turn of the Screw." Henry James' ghostly story of two innocents, yet possessed children will be enacted on the McCarter stage next Thursday, February 7, at 8:30, when the New York City Center company presents Benjamin Britten's "Turn of the Screw."

The opera, first presented in this production during the 1962 season, had its premiere in Venice and its first professional American presentation in July, 1961.

Britten's music and the libretto by Myfanwy Piper combine to capture James' atmosphere of ghostly torment as a governess fights to save her two young charges from the grasp of evil in which they have been trapped.

Patric Neway will portray the governess, heading a cast of seven singers. The orchestra for the McCarter offering will be under the baton of Charles Wilson.

there will be subsequent programs depends on how the workshop is received, a spokesman for the association said.

The program will include a portion of Act III of "La Boheme," a duet from Act I of "Cosi Fan Tutti," the flower scene from Act II of "Madame Butterfly," duets from Act II and Act IV of "Aida" and the prologue to "Faust."

Singers will be James Kurtz, Claire Everhard, Jamison and Joyce Gill, Eleanor Holly, Muriel Long, Virginia Cole Schaefer, Nancy Jackson, Valero Maccione and Woodward Waecher. Walter Blazer will be director, and James Waters will provide piano accompaniment.

The association has interrupted its regular schedule of classes and workshops to plan this public performance. It is designed to raise money to finance the association's continuing activities.

Members of the Guild of the Princeton Opera Association will be awarded free by presenting membership cards. Single tickets will be $2 each. Tickets for couples or families will be $3. The purchase of a $2 ticket will entitle the buyer to guild membership.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
Jumbo (now playing) is one of the most spangled musicals to emerge from Hollywood. A full-blown version of the Broadway hit of 27 years ago, the film stars Jimmy Durante in his original role of die-hard Pop Wonder, owner of the Wonder Circus. The big cast also includes Doris Day as a ballerina on horseback, Stephen Boyd as a circus jockey-of-all-trades, Martha Raye, who has been waiting 14 years for Pop to marry her, and Dean Jagger, owner of a rival circus.

The show features 30 special acts by world-famous circus stars and such Rodgers and Hart songs as "This Can't Be Love" and "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World." There's a colorful circus parade on Main Street, a carousel, as well as high wire thrills and animal acts.

Set at the turn of the century, the story concerns the struggles of the Wonder Circus to meet the demands of its creditors and still hang on to its star elephant, Jumbo. The circus is struck by a tornado and when things look blackest, Stephen Boyd appears to save the day. Only if he develops that he is the son of the owner of a rival circus. So it goes with music. Comment: star-and-song studded musical.

THESE & MORE INSIDE

Want to Paint? Paper? On a very brief side street in Hopewell—1 South Greenwood, just off Broad Street across from the bank—you'll find the smallest shop with the most tremendous inventory. Like a treasure chest of fairy-tale cottages that turns out to be a palace inside.

At Saums Paint Shop, an establishment devoted not only to paint but to wallpaper, stair treads, Venetian blinds, curtains and back numbers of "House Beautiful."

If you are planning to refurbish your home, all you have to do is walk in the door, put your feet up on a paint can and spend the day. When you come out, you'll have everything all planned.

On the paint side, Saums sells DuPont, especially Lucite. The shop can make custom colors in Lucite, semigloss or any finish you like, even to matching a fabric swatch if you bring one in.

Pierce's Spiffy, a rubber-base paint, is another Saums favorite. Familiar with Pierce? Perhaps not, but it's one of the country's oldest paint houses, established in 1847. You may also have custom-coloring with Pierce and about 300 shades to choose from.

Wallpapers come from the design books of Schumacher and Waverly, Samuel Schultz, Thibaut and Trimu, among others. In a quick glance, we found such felicities as Schumacher's "Classics," a print with pictures of old cars, like Mercedes, Bugatti and the like, and matching Glesheen cotton for curtains; a quilted paper in old English chints; a flowered paper reproducing an 18th century damask and a sprightly family of butterflies on vinyl. Sample fabric books show you French boucles, Etruscan cloth in solid shades, some delightful provincial prints and a fantastic collection of florals. Something for everybody.

Now, down to the floor. Arranging sheet flooring (linoleum, to you or tile in a bewildering variety of substance: vinyl, asphalt and goodness knows what all; those intriguing tesserae or color chips that look for all the world like inlaid stones—the variety and choice is wide. (You can even pick up seconds sometimes, and save.) Rubber matting for your stair treads looks like nubby tweed, or a similar homespun substance.

For your windows Saums suggests dramatically striped window-shades in yellow, or perhaps rust red stripes against white. Your trim might be fringe, tassel or scallop. Or choose a solid color shade in geranium or bright gold, with a white backing to show the outside world. These are ecruque shades, by the way, and made to your order, of course.

Venetian blinds and those delightfully formal Austrian style shades may be made to order, too. For drapes, there are Kirsch traverse rods, which Saums workmen will install for you.

To help out the floundering housewife, Saums has a small library of decorating aids, like the Better Home and Gardens decorating book, a similar volume from the Ladies' Home Journal and various issues of "House Beautiful," all of which you can check out, just like the library. And getting back to paper and paint again: the shop is now taking contracts for both papering and painting, in case you prefer not to take it all on yourself.

For Rent: For Work

A wife who is determined to wallpaper a house herself has been known, on occasion, to suggest that her husband help out. She has a little — by taping off the old paper. With these poor martyrs in mind, Saums Paint Shop in Hopewell has acquired wallpaper steamers to rent. Five dollars a day, if you buy your wallpaper here.

And then, of course, there are floor sanders, floor polishers and those little hand sanders that poke into the corners, all of them ready to rent anytime you like, any time your husband is agreeable (well, let's not wait for that, for goodness' sake).

The shop also has paint brushes, stirring rods, paint edgers for shakly hands, rollers, wallpaper brushes and anything else you can think of — these for sale.

SEW WITH PETER

Cotton By Peter Pan cottons in brand-new spring designs will surprise you with their fresh sophistication. Who, for example, would expect the Mondrian touch in P. Pan? Yet there it is, in a white cotton with narrow and wide black bands laid over blocks of orange, gold, beige and grey in varying dimensions. Who so it's Mondrian gone mad—the effect is the same.

We found these new cottons at The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street. Another in the same vein has such a compatible design we can't tell what the background color is! The print is a wildly brilliant geometric with lemon, charcoal, black, gold and white in wedges, blocks, chisel shapes, all fitted together like an angular jigsaw.

The jig-saw has been used again to make a completely different print, this one a gentle pastel in blues and violets or sand shades and gold, with the curving pieces unobtrusively outlined. These are Everglaze Minicars—did we tell you? The name speaks for itself.

In other Peter Pans at the Chambers Street shop you'll find brush-stroke florals, some in pastels, one in dramatic charcoal grey on oyster white. And Peter Pan takes a leaf—and a flower—from Liberty to make a bluebell print as gentle as an English rain. A crocus print, in blues or pinks, has been matched by the Fabric Shop girls with a powder-blue mobair and a shell pink wool flannel for devastating effect.

Peter Pan piques are apt to be black prints on white, like the rami-maire polka dots with shaggy edges, the sawtooth roses or the pleasantly greyyed paisley with demure rose garlands. Quotation marks — Continued on Page 10

WEDDINGS
Stefanelli-Maxwell. Miss Linda S. Maxwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanders Maxwell of Edgerstown Road, to Anthony Stefanelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Stefanelli of Lawrenceville Road, January 26; at the home of the bride.

Clapp-Kinzel. Miss Ann S. Kinzel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Kinzel of Trenton, to Harvey R. Clapp 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey R. Clapp Jr. of Baltimore, Md. January 26; Immaculate Conception Church, Trenton.

Laurence Olivier portrays a dedicated schoolmaster whose pupils are young hoodlums in a slum area of England's industrial north. Terence Stamp, seen here last week in "Billy Budd," is the truculent student who openly defies and baits Olivier. The infatuated schoolgirl who accuses Olivier of indecent assault is well played by a screen newcomer, Sarah Miles.

Others in the east are Hugh Griffith as the defense lawyer, and Simone Signoret, the teacher's French wife who has a fine Gallic contempt. Comment: heavy drama.

AWARDS PRESENTED

At United Fund Dinner, Miss Evangeline E. Miller, received the Council of Community Services award and George R. Griffin the Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award at the annual dinner of the United Community Fund Monday at the Nassau Inn. At the same time, John M. Reeder's election as Fund president for 1963 was announced.

Miss Miller, director of the Princeton Nursery School since 1936, was cited for more than a quarter-century of devoted work on behalf of that agency of the Fund. "To know her is to recognize a positive spirit, fabricated in, and dedicated to, a life of humanitarian service," the citation said in part.

Mr. Griffin, president of the Garden State Construction Co., was honored for all that he has done for the community and sense of duty to his fellow man. The citation credited his "contributions of time, thought, service and money" with creating "a finer community in which to live and work."

TOWNSHIP PROTESTS

On County Tax Table. Fresh from their successful appeal of last year's county tax edict, Township officials appeared Friday before the Mercer County Tax Board to ask that the ratio of assessed value to true value in the Township be raised from the 89.02 percent assigned by the county.

Gordon Griffin, Township attorney, and Stuart Robson, assessor, told the tax board that the 89.02 percent figure is too low. (The Township tries for a 100 percent assessment.) Because it is too low, the Township pays the county more than its share of the county tax load. Mr. Griffin and Mr. Robson said.

The county sets its ratios by using property sales figures compiled by the state to determine school aid. The state collects these figures over the year from July 1 to June 30, and Township officials point out that the figures are always six months behind.

The Township would like to see the county take its own sample of property sales, and even broaden the sample for a truer picture of property values in a municipality. Jeffrey Lane, Princeton Junction, both on January 26.

Last year, Mr. Griffin and Mr. Robson appealed successfully to the state tax board and won a raise in the Township base from 88 to 89 percent, thereby saving the Township about $5,000 in county taxes.

The pastel wools you'll sew for spring are coral, mint, pale blue and that yellow that is important for 1963.

SHOES TOO LOOSE?

Tell John. When you go to a show that shows shoemakers slipping machines—and if you can say that one fast you've got the right shoe on the right foot—you're bound to come away with all kinds of interesting new gadgets.

This is what happened to John of John's Shoe Repair. What he brought home with him last time is a machine to stretch and shrink shoes. Let us suppose that you have a shoe that seems to fit all right except for that looseness at the heel. Take it to John. For $1 he will apply the mysteries of his new machine and shrink the leather down for you so that the heel will fit snugly.

At the same time, if you wish he can stretch the toe to add comfort and subtract blisters. These stretch-shrink exercises can be applied to any shoe—men's, women's or children's. Think what a boon for the leather that has been trampled out of shape by the manipulations of a 10-year-old foot! John's stretch machine is in his shop at 66 Witherspoon.

OPEN HOUSE TO END

Marks YMCA Celebration. Celebration of National YMCA Week will end Sunday with a special Open House program at the YMCA on Avalon Place. Members of the Princeton community are invited to attend.

An entire afternoon's series of events has been planned, starting with a special aquatic show at 2 Champion Y and college swimmers will be featured at well as demonstrations by the Scuba and Skin Diving clubs. The Nerissa, a water ballet team from the Newark YMCA, which has won area-wide competitions, will perform solo and team ballet numbers. Robert Cloutworthy, Princeton University swim team coach, will provide a special clown diving demonstration.

Following the aquatic show, there will be demonstrations of a variety of regular YMCA programs. Among these will be a judo demonstration under Y instructor Robert Mura; a fencing demonstration led by University coach Stanley Siegel; and one by the boys' wrestling team and the Radio Club. A performance by the Princeton High School Choir from 4:15 to 5 will conclude the afternoon's activities. Director Thomas Hultsch will lead the choir which will sing some of the selections offered on its European tour last summer.

will present a program of dancing, folk singing, ping-pong and swimming. Admission will be 25 cents.

An Indian Guide Pow Wow for fathers and sons will highlight Friday's events. The Y's Olympic-size pool will be available for free adult and family swimming on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Times are available at the Y office.

Burghard, 41, of Montgomery Avenue, Princeton Junction, pleaded guilty to driving without a license and was fined $15. John Fisher, 27, of 31 Humbert Street was fined $15 after pleading guilty to failure to keep right at an intersection.

PLAINSBORO TROOP WINS

District Scout Rally. Troop 108 of Plainboro won first place in the annual District Scout Rally held Friday evening at Princeton University's Dillon Gymnasium. The rally comprised fire-building by flint and steel, knot-tying, and erecting 14-foot tripods with rope lashing. Over 250 Scouts participated.

Second place honors were captured by Troop 47 of the First Presbyterian Church of Princeton and third place by Troop 47 or Skunk. A new rally cup was put into competition by Troop 50 of Princeton's Trinity Church, which had retired the last trophy by winning it for three straight years.

A special feature of the rally was a display of marching and bugling by the Explorers. The Marching Band of the State Home for Boys at Jamesburg. The rally was under the direction of Timothy Taft of the Alpha Phi Omega Scouting Fraternity, Princeton University. Mr. Taft was assisted by adult scout leaders in the Princeton area.

MILLER ELECTED
Ta Head Citizens Group, K. Dexter Miller, Jr., of Province Line Road, has been elected president of the North Lawrence Citizens' Association. He succeeds Henry M. Bach, Jr., who will become a member of the group's executive committee.

Other new officers are William G. LaTourette, Carter Road, first vice-president; Dudley E. Woodbridge, Carter Road, second vice-president; Donald H. Tyler, Lawrenceville, treasurer; and George E. Wilson, Brentwood Lane, secretary.

Mr. Miller, a vice-president of the association since its founding in 1960, spoke last week before a meeting of the Lawrence Township Planning Board. He urged the board to plan now to cope with anticipated growth of the Township.

Mr. Miller urged that information be gathered regarding the area's water resources. He said soil percolation data for areas serviced by septic tanks were needed before conclusions could be reached about minimum lot sizes in the Township.

Mr. Miller urged gathering data to the use, location and desirability of two dams proposed within the Township before decisions are made on the projects. He said such data should be gathered by experts and should be available to the general public as well as to members of the Planning Board.

In a policy statement, Mr. Miller said the aim of the association was to assure that the Village of Lawrenceville and its surrounding area grow in a controlled and desirable manner without loss of existing character and charm. He added:

"For the past two years we have consistently maintained that this goal can be reached only if our zoning laws are enforced fairly and impartially and construed and interpreted most favorably toward the good of the community as the state statute requires. We intend to continue our efforts in this direction."

"Following existing law is only the beginning, however. By 1970 Lawrence Township will be facing problems and pressures which today's rules cannot solve. We must find new ways to conserve our natural land resources while providing the facilities required of a growing population. This must be achieved at reasonable cost without taxing ourselves beyond our abilities, and above that, without falling prey to the easy lure of outside support, which could lead to external control and exploitation."

JAILED FOR 2½ YEARS
For Township Thefts. Pleading guilty to five counts of larceny, David Burnett, 44, Klags Avenue, Trenton, was sentenced to two and one-half years in the Mercer County Workhouse Saturday morning by Township Magistrate James Hill.

Burnett, a former resident of Kingston, was picked up by Trenton police last week on a warrant issued by the Township. He was charged with entering five homes, all located in the eastern end of the Township, on eight occasions and stealing money from purses left inside front entrance foyers. The thefts took place between June, 1961, and December, 1961.

Originally, a four-year sentence had been imposed on Burnett, but this was reduced to two and one-half years when the number of larceny charges was reduced from eight to five. Police said the suspect had a criminal record dating back to 1949.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED
By Tiger Town Teens. The YM-YWCA will hold a Tiger Town Teens Open House on Saturday from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Y. Princeton teenagers in grades nine through twelve are invited.

Activities will include dancing to the music of Paul Evers's band, folk-singing with The Wayfarers, swimming, ping-pong and cards. The Y snack bar will also be open during the evening.

DISCUSSIONS PLANNED
In Great Decisions Program. "The Common Market—Blueprint For A New Europe" will be the subject of discussion groups meeting Wednesday, February 6, from 8:15 to 9:45 p.m. at the Princeton YMCA.

The groups will base their meetings on a television program of the same title that will be broadcast Monday from 9 to 10 p.m. on Channel 13, WNDT. The discussion groups are part of the "Great Decisions 1963" program of the Foreign Policy Association.

Lions Plan Dance
The Princeton Lions Club will hold its eighth annual benefit dance on Saturday, February 9, from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. in Miss Fine's School. Paul Rossi and his orchestra will provide music.

Martin Reef is general chairman for the event. Assisting him are Edward J. Kopp, Richard Katen, Edwin Foussaint, Fred Klink, Henry Gelsenbomer, Anthony Lieng, William Kiefer and Donald Pereset.

John Matthews of 85 Moore Street, a state member of the Foreign Policy Association, said, "Anyone can form a Great Decisions discussion group with his neighbors and friends and meet once a week at a time most convenient to all."

Mr. Matthews said he hoped groups would form to meet in private homes in addition to those that already meet at the Y.

Beginning February 6, Mr. Matthews said, two FM radio stations will broadcast Great Decisions programs weekly at 7 p.m. for those who have no television sets or for whom the later hour is inconvenient. The stations are WNCV (106.7 mg) of New York and WHYI (90.9 mg) of Philadelphia.

DANCE SCHEDULED
By Rocky Hill Firemen. The Rocky Hill Fire Department will hold a dance at the firehouse, Washington Street, Rocky Hill, on Saturday, February 16.

The dance will start at 9. Tickets may be obtained from any fireman or by calling chairman Elmer Perantoni at WA 4-3847.

The Princeton League of Women Voters has prepared the following biographical sketches of the five Township and four Borough residents who will seek office in the school district election on Wednesday, February 13. Each candidate—asked to hold his answer to 10 words because of space limitations—has replied to the question, "What improvements do you think are necessary in the present school system?"

TOWNSHIP CANDIDATES

M. Lawrence Bayern, 132 Terhune Road, born, New Canaan, N. Y. A Township resident for five years. Cornell University. B. S. courses taken at Cornell University Graduate School of Education. Graduate School of Administration, New York University and Rutgers University. Occupation, sales representative, American Cyanamid Co. Four children, three attending Community Park School, and one pre-school age. Princeton activities include: Valley Road-Community Park PTA; Cubmaster and Boy Scout Committee member; Chairman of the Jaycees Political Affairs Committee and Jaycee representative to the Princeton Township Council, 1959-1961.

Answer: "While the present school system is a good one, I feel there should be greater emphasis on attracting and keeping career teachers. Most Township families have had experience with this constant turnover and realize the stress it places on the school system and children. More time and study must be devoted to solving this problem."

Marion G. Epstein, (Mrs. Jess Epstein), 7 Littlebrook Road, born, Brooklyn, N. Y., and a Township resident for 11 years. Barnard College, B. A., Bryn Mawr College, M. A., Ph.D. Occupation, Associate in Mathematics Test Development, Educational Testing Service. Three children, one Princeton High School, two Princeton High School graduates now in college. Princeton activities: Township Board of Education, 1956-to present; vice-president, three years; president two years; League of Women Voters, past president; Family Service Association, Board of Directors; Council of Community Services; participated in writing School Mathematics Study Curriculum;

TOWNSHIP CONTEST: These five candidates will contend for the three available positions on the Township School Board. Standing: Donald H. Riddle and George Grace seated. Mrs. Leslie Vivian, Jr., Mrs. Jess Epstein and M. Lawrence Bayern. Mr. Grace and Mrs. Epstein are running for re-election. (Staff Photo)

Workshop Committee N. J. State Federation of District Boards of Education; Advisory Committee to High School on Mathematics Curriculum; High School Lay Council.

Answer: "Improvement in recent years has been dramatic but continuous evolution and reevaluation is essential. We must work toward more effective continuity of education for Township children through the 12th grade and search for the most efficient teaching and other techniques for individualizing progress that are suitable to a public school situation."

George M. Grace, Pretty Brook Road, born, New York City, a resident of Township for ten years. Princeton University, A. B. New York University, M. B. A. Occupation, Assistant Vice-President, Chase Manhattan Bank. Three children attending Johnson Park School.

Answer: "In recent years there has been substantial improvement in instructional and administrative salaries, curriculum content and physical plant. Our next improvements should be in the area of a unified kindergarten through 12 system. The future report of the Citizens Advisory Committee should serve as a useful guide to us on this subject."

Donald H. Riddle, 63 Deer Path, born, New York City, a Township resident for ten years. Princeton University,

A. B. M. A. (Woodrow Wilson Fellow), Ph. D. (Recipient of a Ford Fellowship for the Advancement of Teaching), Occupation, Professor of Political Science at Rutgers. Two children attending Valley Road School. Princeton Activities include: Director of National projects in Social Studies Curriculum Revision, 1958-to present; producer of new text materials and a set of films; curriculum consultant; participant in education conferences.

Answer: "Probable high school overcrowding is our most pressing problem. But the greatest present need is to evaluate our numerous curricular experiments rigorously and thoroughly in terms of educational merit and their effects on children; and to make modifications, if indicated, to develop a coherent curriculum best serving our children's needs."

Anita Willis Vivian (Mrs. L. L. Vivian, Jr.), 74 Maclean Circle, born, Flushing, N. Y., and a Township resident for 13 years. Smith College, B. A. Occupation, housewife. Four children, one at Riverside, two Princeton High School, one graduate of Valley Road. Princeton activities include: Former President Valley Road PTA, three terms, PTA board, seven years; Mercer County PTA board, one year; United Community Fund, trustee and member of budget committee; Girl Scout Council, board member and leader; Citizens Committee for the planning of Riverside and Johnson Park.

Answer: "A plan to combine the Township and Borough schools seems of major importance for the strengthening of the two roads, but separate systems. A plan fair to the citizens of both would make better use of the communities' economic, educational and human resources."

BOROUGH CANDIDATES

John A. Buckland, 38 Stanley Avenue, Born Vancouver, Canada, naturalized as a citizen in 1934, and a Borough resident for four years. University of British Columbia, B. A. Sc. M. A. Sc. Pennsylvania State University, Ph. D. Occupation, supervisor, Mathematical Methods, Information and Computer Services Department, Shell Oil Company. Four children attending Nassau Street School and Princeton School PTA, treasurer; Sunday School PTA, treasurer; Sunday School teacher, Scout troop committee.

Answer: "The new school is our most necessary improvement in the Borough. Here we transferred all we have of value, appreciated, and I think features we have wished for. We must review our present organization to coordinate it in a modern school. This will also call for cooperative study with the Township."

Edward G. Hofegsanz, 29 Forester Drive, Born Newark, N. J., and a Borough resident for seven years. Montclair State College, B. A., Hamilton College, University of Pennsylvania, Master's Government Administration, Occupation, Administrative Analyst, State of New Jersey, Budget Bureau. Two children attending Nassau Street School. Princeton activities include: PTA, Borough Planning Board.

For a small state—a big role in American communications

The telephone industry has created more than 59,000 jobs for New Jersey people. It will spend $655 million here this year — for everything from stationery to satellites to satellite companies. That's quite a boost to our state's prosperity. You might call it our most important by-product. Our main product, of course: the finest telephone service in the world.

ONE STRAW VOTE is represented by Bill Dawson, Nassau Street insurance salesman, who predicts Kennedy would win any Kennedy-Rockefeller race in 1964. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Regardless of how you plan to vote next year, whom do you think would win a Kennedy-Rockefeller race?

Where asked: Princeton Shopping Center.

Randall Hagadorn, Cranbury, technical associate, Fort-Researched Center: I think Kennedy would win, not so much on his record but for his personal appeal to the people. He'll win just on his personal appeal.

Mrs. Edwin Rian, Snowden Lane, housewife: I'd vote for the Republican candidate but I think Kennedy would win because he has gotten to the point now in our country where if a candidate is elected for one term he is elected for a second, provided he hasn't made any terrible mistakes in the first.

Ralph J. Sharp, 59 Snowden Lane, mathematics teacher and market research consultant: I am a Republican and I'd vote for Rockefeller but I think Kennedy will win because, in a close election, the man in power always has the strongest chance of getting it.

Mrs. Pearce T. Rayner, 6 Gulick Road, housewife: Rockefeller. I think he's just as liberal as Kennedy and has a much better personality. Actually, both of them, in my opinion, are too liberal. I'd be for Goldwater.

Charles Gatto, 224 Valley Road, retired mail clerk for Princeton University: I'm a Republican so, regardless, I'd naturally like to see Rockefeller win but it would be quite a race all right. Rockefeller has been bucked many times and he has had tough sledding but he always seems to be elected.

Mrs. Harry Newman, Ringoes, housewife: In the light of current events, I would guess that Rockefeller would be the victor if he ran in 1964. I have a feeling that his popularity is increasing by leaps and bounds. From my own wartime experience working under Rockefeller I found he was an excellent administrator and used good judgment in selecting the people around him to help him formulate policies. I feel he would carry these abilities into the presidency, and I wish him luck.

William Dawson, Skillman, insurance salesman: Kennedy. His original image which is what won him the first election.

Mrs. Minor Hughes, Jr., Roosevelt, housewife: I think Kennedy would win. I think the country is apt to give the president the advantage of the second term. I also feel Rockefeller is too liberal to be elected.

Robert Blumenfeld, 39 Randall Road, college student: I think Kennedy would win. His Cuban policy seems to be popular with a great many people and I just get the impression that the country likes him from listening to his press conferences and from news reports. The discussions after his news conferences on Channel 13, for example, indicate to me he is a very popular president. I would prefer neither for president.

Mrs. Marian Wallace, 415-B Devereux Avenue, housewife: Kennedy, because he is the incumbent and I think this is an advantage. I think he is popular enough with the people to be reelected.

George Gurisic, Rocky Hill, Chief of Police, Rocky Hill, Conn.: I think he is doing a creditable job right now and I think, at the present time, he would be reelected.

Mrs. Arthur T. Fenton, 212 State Road, housewife: I'm prejudiced because my husband was a roommate of Nelson Rockefeller at Dartmouth but I'd like to see the incumbent win and I think he has a fairly good chance this coming election. In politics, you always make enemies and Rockefeller is no exception but I do feel he is for the little man. And I know him and I know how he feels about the little man. And this is not just being a politician on his part. His concern is genuine. I could cite many instances.

A. Cornell Blackwell, Blackwells Road, Pennington, farmer: Probably Kennedy because of the name. That's the only reason I would know.

Mrs. Thomas Friel, 326 Evoking Street, housewife: I think Kennedy would win because I think he is more for the average person.

Burle Richardson, 26½ Leigh Avenue, laundry worker: I'm confident Rockefeller would make a good president and I have a strong feeling he will win. He mixes with the ordinary person and cares about their problems. He's the first rich man I ever knew about in my life.

Mrs. Anna Henderson, 25 Henderson Avenue, dressmaker: I think Kennedy. I think while the Cuban situation was delayed, he did do very well recently in settling the crisis and I think the voters will remember this. I think he has done a good job as president.

Mrs. B. H. Harmon, Princeton, homemaker: Quite frankly, I'm not sure. I voted for Kennedy rather than Nixon because Nixon is too poor a loser but if I had to choose I would have voted for him. I think he had done a very commendable job as Governor of New York and I believe he would do an equally as good job in world affairs. But I think Kennedy has also done a good job, too, so I really don't know who would win.

Mrs. William Layton, Trenton, worker for Princeton Community Center: Rockefeller. There have been a lot of complaints about some of Kennedy's programs but in spite of this I feel he has still done a good job. You can't please everyone. I still think Rockefeller would win, though.

Walter Scott Remembered.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I have no desire to detract from the high commendation you have given Bill Coley as your Man of the Week (January 24). He certainly has done an outstanding job in behalf of the Princeton community, and I join you in honoring him. However, you are in error when you state that the ideal of a truly United Fund "was limping along, almost on the rim of extinction in the late 1950's." Fine rhetoric, perhaps, but neither accurate nor fair to Mr. Coley's predecessor, Walter Scott.

If you will check the record or talk with leaders in the PUCF, you will find that it was Walter Scott who instilled new life into the Fund when it was on the rim of extinction. Under his professional leadership, the community gradually raised its sights and learned to open its heart and its pocketbook as never before.

In 1955, the year before Walter Scott came to Princeton, the Fund had raised only $135,685. When he left in 1959, it had passed the $200,000 mark. Mr. Coley recognized his debt to his predecessor when he wrote in his 1961 Annual Report, "I consider myself most fortunate to succeed Walter Scott who laid the groundwork upon which a framework of success can be built."

I would hate to think that our collective memory is so short that we recognize only the hour of the hour and, in praising him, disparage others who made his victory possible.
BENJAMIN SHIMBERG
26 Cuyler Road

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS agrees with Dr. Shimberg that Walter Scott's contributions to the success of the United Fund campaigns were sizeable. It cited him three years ago as its "Man of the Week" for raising nearly $700,000 during his tenure and, more emphatically, for developing "depth in leadership" in Fund direction. As Mr. Coley would be the first to agree, it is the extreme breadth of volunteer service working for the Fund that has made surpassing current quotas possible. It is, however, a part of the picture to point out that only since 1953 in the 12 years preceding Mr. Coley's arrival on the Princeton scene had this charitable fund-raising project gone over the top.

Budget Protests Unrealistic.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
I read with mounting dismay of the hue and cry raised at the hearing over the new Township School Budget. I wonder if the situation here doesn't require that we open our eyes and take a good hard look around at the world we're living in, and then adjust our thinking to the realities of the times.

Costs are mounting on every conceivable item we need, or think we need. That is an indisputable fact we have to face. Further requirement would seem to be to ponder our own present system of values and to examine our own underlying motives.

Are we putting first things first, and are we backing up with our financial resources, the goal or the possession we pride ourselves on the most lightly? More bluntly, do we have anything more important to spend our money on than the education of our children? Are we willing to buy new cars at higher and higher prices and indulge ourselves with all kinds of "necessities" like vacations which are becoming more and more expensive, and then become enraged when the cost of educating the children of our community also rises?

The time when one room and one teacher served a community's entire school population has long since passed. Today's world demands more from every one of us—more from our children, more from our teachers, and more from us taxpayers.

Which is your attitude . . .

toward the BIBLE?

Do you have a Bible? Most people do. Do you read the Bible? Most people don't. What is your attitude toward the Bible? It is the most loved and the most hated book in the world. In between these two extremes there are many other attitudes toward the Bible.

Antagonism: There are some like Jehoiakim of the Old Testament, who took the word of God addressed to him and cut it to pieces with his knife (Jeremiah 36:23). He despised God and any word of God. There have been many like him. Emperor Diocletian in the third century decreed that all copies of the Bible should be destroyed. He also decreed death as the penalty for reading the Bible.

Ridicule: The atheist Thomas Paine, like Communists of today, scoffed at the Bible and said that it would soon become a mere museum relic. Paine is dead, and yet the Bible is our nation's "best seller" today. The Bible forewarned of such scoffers (2 Peter 3:3).

Superstition: Many people look on the Bible much like a superstitious person who carries a rabbit foot or a buckeye. They do not read it, but feel safer if it is close by. They lay their hand on it when they swear, but they never handle it aright as the word of truth (2 Timothy 2:15). They clutch it in fear in foxholes but refuse to read it in times of peace.

Indifference: There are many who neither hate it nor love it. Their indifferent attitude results in ignorance. The prophet Hosea reprimanded the people on this point and warned of the consequences: "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children" (Hosea 4:6). "For this people's heart is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes they have closed; lest at any time they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and should understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them" (Matthew 13:15).

Prejudice: Many people read the Bible to prove their point. They use the Scriptures for their purpose (2 Peter 4:16). They do not read their Bible with the sincere desire to find what the word of God is.

Loyalty: In contrast to the extreme attitudes of Jehoiakim and Diocletian, there have been great men like John Wycliffe and William Tyndale. These men held that "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (2 Timothy 3:16, 17). Wycliffe, who lived in the fourteenth century, was dedicated to the proposition that the "Scriptures are the property of the people"—even as the noble Bereans searched the Scriptures daily. He was hated for this attitude, and 40 years after his death people dug up his body and threw his ashes into the River Swift as an expression of their violent hatred for a man who loved the Bible so much. Tyndale was determined that even a plowboy should know the Scriptures. He was forced to work in secret because his life was in danger. As a result of his efforts thousands of copies of the Bible were circulated in England in the sixteenth century. For all of this he was imprisoned, treated shamefully, and finally strangled and burned.

Such love for the Scriptures was expressed beautifully by Sir Walter Scott:

*"Within this ample volume lies
The mystery of mysteries.
Happiest they of human race
To whom their God has given grace
To read, to fear, to hope, to pray,
To lift the latch, to force the way;
But better had they ne'er been born
That read to doubt or read to scorn."*

Our Lord Jesus Christ pointed to the judgment day in these words, emphasizing the eternal importance of the word of God:

"He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day" (John 12:48).

Let's face up to that world, and be not only willing to give, but grateful we are able to give, a sound educational foundation to the children of our community. They are going to need it—nothing short of the best will be good enough—in order that they may be prepared to face tomorrow's world. Yesterday's thinking may have been valid for yesterday though that is questionable! It is completely inadequate for today.

Certainly as citizens we should be informed and concerned and ask questions, but let our approach be constructive and not merely penny-pinching. We are cheating not only the next generation, but our own self. Just consider for a moment the frightful costs of juvenile delinquency, for example, as against the cost of preventing it.

(Parenthetically, I wonder if some of the "businessmen" who objected to the increased school budget felt the same outrage the last time they received or granted themselves a raise in salary or protested when their work load was lightened by the provision of an assistant. But of course—running a business is not the same as educating a child. And we can all be thankful for that.)

The budget will be submitted to the citizenry on February 13. Let us hope that all those good people who studied the budget and then "voiced" their approval by staying home from the hearing (a demonstrably unwise procedure) will now appear en masse and vote their approval, so that it may pass without further cuts and without further nonsense.

Following is the text of a letter sent to the Township Board of Education:

The Johnson Park PTA Executive Board wishes to express its support of the 1963-64 school budget proposed by you. We should also like to express our appreciation for the fine job you have done in providing us with an outstanding school system.

We particularly wish to commend the Board of Education in its effort to support the present student-teacher ratio.

As taxpayers and as parents of children attending the schools, we have confidence in your judgment, your experience and your skills, and we fully endorse the measures you have proposed to promote and continue the high standards you have set.

Rescue League Still Active.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
For the past 47 years I have lived in the Princeton area and have seen the gradual evolution from the life of the past days to the more sophisticated atmosphere of today with greater conveniences, better highways and generally improved conditions in the Princeton area. And all this is fine.

Of course we can grumble a bit sometime about what has been lost: such is life. But some problems are ever with us. Whatever the growth of the citizenry, still there lives amongst us—as in the past—animal friends for which the human residents are responsible whether or not we accept that responsibility. It is not enough to give humane care to the dog or cat or even personally. What becomes of the animals who are lost or—more shame to their owners—are willfully deserted, thrown away as helpless puppies or kittens or callously thrust out on the car that speeds away from the deserted one and is soon lost to it in the traffic?

What becomes of these animals? Do they slowly starve and suffer? Do any by some chance eventually find homes? Who cares? The Princeton Small Animal Rescue League cares!

For years the members of this League, through their efficient adoption service have befriended unfortunate small animals stranded in this area. They have given them temporary care; found them new and more appreciative owners and endeavored to see that no animal is left to face alone the terror of homelessness.

Recently, however, I had occasion to consult Mrs. Graves, executive secretary, concerning the care of a dog, in which I was interested, and learned to my dismay that the League is now temporarily out of business and may be forced to suspend its activities entirely! She did not give the reason for this decision, but we know well that a responsible group the calibre of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League does not "fold its tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away" without valid and sufficient reason.

What is to be done to meet this crisis? Suppose your own pet becomes one of the lost, to whom will you turn for assistance? Do the residents of Princeton want the horns of a dog pound? What is the alternative? This problem facing us is very real.

"In union there is strength" is more than an amiable cliché! There is need NOW for concerted, popular action endorsing the rescue work of this League, and its dedicated, wisely sympathetic officers.

C. GREEN

R. D. I

Editor's Note: The Small Animal Rescue League maintains at present its adoption and lost and found services, according to Mrs. Allan Stephens, president. Strays are referred to Borough and Township police. Although the Rescue League no longer boards dogs at the Lawrence Hotel, it hopes to have its own shelter eventually.

MUSIC In Princeton

HARRISON WORK LAUDED
Played by Symphony. On Monday evening at McCarter Theatre, the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Nicholas Harsanyi, presented its second concert of the season. The new work on the program was the "Song for Soprano and Small Orchestra" by John Harrison, in which the soloist was Sherrill Marks. The pianist William Masselos was heard as soloist in the Grieg Piano Concerto, and the orchestra also played the Schubert "Rosamunde" Overture and Haydn's Symphony No. 46.

Pride of place, naturally, goes to the Harrison work, one of the Princeton Symphony's admirable series of premieres by local composers. In this case, the composer was also the conductor — and equally convincing in both roles. The "song," to an anonymous text from around the year 1500, showed great skill in vocal writing, with a strong overall line, building to an impressive climax in the fifth stanza, and rounded off in the remaining two stanzas, still maintaining a high level of tension.

The remarkable singing of Mrs. Marks surely could not be improved upon; many singers of great celebrity are not her equals in matters of intonation, diction and musicianship, and her firm, easily-produced tone is a continuing pleasure to the ear. The overall orchestral performance did not, in every detail, reach this exalted level, but it had shape and impetus, which are as unusual as they are desirable in performances of new music.

Here, perhaps, is the greatest single advantage of the concert-conducted performance: although Mr. Harrison is a good enough conductor to be an advantage in other contexts as well, the composer knows intuitively these broader, harder-to-notate aspects of a score, which other conductors will only learn from study and rehearsal, and not always. Later, the other conductors may give better renditions, but on the first times around the composer has a head start. Like Roger Sessions conducting his "Idyll of Theatricals" several years ago, John Harrison gave a performance which sounded like a piece of music not the usual tentative groping toward uncertain destinations through unknown regions.

Haydn Symphonies Heard. Also a novelty, after its fashion, was the Haydn Symphony No. 46, which might well have been bulic as its first performance in Princeton. Its remarkable features include its rare key, and (more importantly) a fine minuet with a striking somber touch, followed by a delightful finale full of surprises, and at least of which is the reprise of the minuet. Scholarly opinion would probably encourage use of a harpsichord continuo in performance, and musical common sense would surely argue for a smaller body of players; the overweighted texture, in this performance, did not like with the clearly baroque character of the minuet, for example — and it seems not unlikely that horns playing in B flat would also be of benefit in this respect.

Once again, if it may be suggested that good advice about baroque and classical performance practice (both are relevant to this piece) should be locally obtainable, if the Princeton Symphony is to continue its-in-principle-praise-worthy explorations of this repertoire. As Symphony No. 46 demonstrated, there is no shortage of interesting material.

From the standard repertoire, we had a rather lumpy performance of the "Rosamunde" Overture (much too heavy brass sound in the middle register), and a flashy, if not entirely accurate, rendition of Grieg's Concerto, with more garish stretches of which do not quite succeed in overshadowing some moments of attractive lyricism. It was curious that, in a reading which made its greatest effects in the more bombastic passages, one of the most obvious effects — the sudden attack into the finale on the heels of the Adagio's last chord — should have been so rudely ignored.

FOUR SOLOISTS TO SING in Seminary Concert. Four well-known soloists will be heard next Wednesday in "The Christian Heritage to Music," the concert to be given as part of the Princeton Theological Seminary in a Sequenential Celebration.

It will be given in McCarter Theatre at 8:30, with Nicholas Harsanyi conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra and the Westminster Symphonic Choir. The program includes three works incorporating themes from the Jewish, Roman Catholic and Protestant musical traditions: "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" from Cantata No. 147 by Bach; "Concerto Grosso No. 1" by Bloch; and Haydn's "Mass in B Flat Major" (Theres-

Florence Kopleff, known for her performances with the Robert Shaw Chorale, has often appeared as soloist with the orchestras of New York, Boston, Chicago, Cleveland and San Francisco. Blake Stern was soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale and has appeared with the Boston Symphony, the Cleveland Orchestra and the Minneapolis Symphony. He is Associate Professor of Singing at Yale.

BACH PROGRAM PLANNED
By Choir, Orchestra. Members of the Princeton High School Choir and the Princeton Baroque Orchestra will give a program of music by Johann Sebastian Bach Friday at 8:30 in Proctor Hall of the Graduate College.

The concert has been arranged by Thomas Hilbish, conductor of the choir, and by John Harbison, Princeton composer who was for two years conductor of the Bach Society Orchestra, Cambridge, Mass.

The program will consist of two cantatas, "Alles nur nach Gottes Willen," (No. 72) and "In allen meinen Taten," (No. 97), and the orchestral Suite No. 1 in C major.

Soloists will be Thelma Young, soprano; Barbara Hilbish, contralto; Clarence Moore, tenor and Woodward Waesche, bass. In the continuo will be two harpsichordists, George Todd and Philip Battstone, and a cellist, Lewis Lockwood. Charles Kuskin will be obsolet.

Both cantatas are rarely-heard works. Number 72 is an early composition, incorporating the orchestra in every movement, while Number 97 is a later piece, consisting of a series of elaborate solo movements with relatively little choral and orchestral music.

The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music at Princeton, will be open to the public without charge.

TO SING IN SPRING
Hopewell Chorus Makes Plans. Anyone who likes to sing is invited to join the Hopewell Valley Chorus, now in rehearsal for its spring concert on May 10.

The group meets every Monday night at 8:15 in the Hopewell Elementary School. Thomas Badinger presides. For its spring musical offering, the chorus will sing from the works of Brahms, Mendelssohn, Humperdinck and Davis, among others.

CRUCIAL WEEK AHEAD
For Princeton Quintet. The week which will determine whether it will have a shot at first place in the Ivy League now confronts the Princeton basketball team.

To bring front-running Penn and Yale within reach, the Tigers must defeat the Quakers. The Philadelphiaans will have a two-game road trip to Providence and New Haven. The immediate problem, of course, is to spend front-running Penn here—no easy task for a team that has not been winning convincingly since the first of the year and may be rusty from a two-week layoff for exams.

Saturday's 8 p.m. contest is an assured sell-out for the return match with Coach Jack McCloskey's Red and Blue five. The Philadelphiaans won the first game in the series, but the two teams a month ago, breaking away from a 60-all deadlock to score a 65-62 triumph.

A veteran team composed of four seniors and a junior, Penn has the best balance in the circuit. In fact, the even ability of its starters is, paradoxically, its no play on the team likely to go on a major scoring spree upwards of 20 points.

Captain Jack Wideman, 6-1; Dave Robinson, 6-5; and Sid Amra, 6-3, are the principal scoring threats, with Ray Caza, 6-0, the only junior, also frequently in double figures. J. D. Graham, another 6-5 operator, rounds out the starting quintet.

Penn, too, has a do-or-die aspect to its immediate future. The Quakers, pre-season favorites, must play here Saturday and then have the same road trip the following week-end that Princeton does, meeting Yale and Brown away from home. The Quakers were also figured to win last winter's Ivy but lost three players for academic standing and saw the Elis take the title carry the day, though would be theirs, if the current starting team graduates without achieving a championship, it will be a while before Penn fields a strong contender again.

Tigers Need One-Two Punch. If the memory of the 62-61 loss to Yale in Dillon Gym on January 11 were not so fresh, Princeton would be installed as an odds-on favorite to trim the invaders Saturday. The game is a rematch, however, and will at least one of the other Tigers complement Bill Bradley's steady scoring with a performance that is also well up in double figures?

No one did against Yale, and no one did against Cornell, proving that defeat can come to a team that boasts the third highest scoring player in the nation. Bradley's 27.3 average in 14 games, spectacular as it is, cannot carry the whole load; in fact, if the Tigers' inconsistency persists, there is a question as to when the strain of being a one-man gang may begin to tell on the 6-5 sophomore.

Hyland Will Be Back. The ankle twist that removed Captain Art Hyland from action in the first half at Ithaca has subsided, and he will be ready Saturday. Actually, the three-year veteran is very much the key to the outcome; if he is on form, and contributes his average output of 17 points during the evening, the Tigers should prevail.

The lineup juggling that marked the Tigers' last games is expected to continue as Coach Bill Breda Koff works toward the best possible combination for the stretch run. Senior Bill Haylow will be the third starter; 6-4 sophomore Don Niemann may be the fourth.

The fifth could be sophomore Dan Roth, who broke into the lineup against Cornell, or possibly Chuck Berling, another sophomore whose eligibility was expected to be approved this week following term-end examinations. The latter averaged 20.9 points in his college career and may be the "outside gun" that Princeton needs to complement Bradley's work from closer range.

The freshman teams of the two universities will meet in a preliminary game at 8, and the many basketball buffs who haunt Dillon Gym these days will be sorting out the class of 1960 to see who might be the starting lineup with Bradley next season. Meanwhile, however, attention will be focused on the ability of this year's team to pry itself back into a three-way race with Penn and Yale by pinning de-feats on them in the make-or-break week that begins Saturday.

MICHIGAN TO SWIM HERE

In Dillon Pool A-3. The rennaisance that has marked the Princeton swimming scene for the past two years will be underscored Saturday when a Big Ten team appears. The Tigers in Dillon Pool for the first time in many years. As is the case with the Penn basketball game, a sellout crowd may well result—all seats ($1) are reserved.

Coach Bob Clotworthy hasn't produced a dual meet victory over Harvard or Yale in his short tenure here, but he has achieved such steady progress that last March the Tigers staged a solid upset in the Eastern Intercollegiate. This season, Princeton is 3-1, including a 50-45 triumph over well-regarded Navy.

Hockey Team At Yale. The only other Ivy team which is below the 500 mark on the season will play host to Princeton's ever-popular sextet Saturday night. Outcome of the game between Yale and the Tigers at New Haven will begin to settle the question of whether one of them or Dartmouth will finish the season in last place.
The Elis have lost to Cornell and Brown but hold an 8-5 decision over Dartmouth to their credit. They lack a scoring threat such as Johnny Cook, but have an edge in depth on the extremely thinly-manned Princetonians. The Tigers, 2-12 on the season, have not won since December 19 and have scored only six goals in their last four games.
Tuesday night at 8, Clarkson's fine team will be in Baker Rink, highly favored to extend a string of victories over the Tigers that dates back to 1932. The Potsdam, N. Y., college, which last winter lost only three of its 23 games, is 99's Canadian in its make-up—only one player on its squad comes from this country.

Rounding out spectator action here at the varsity level are a squash match against Cornell and a fencing match against CCNY. Both will begin at 2 o'clock; neither require admission.

Princeton's promising freshman hockey team, 5-1, will play host to a couple of high schools from the New Haven area. Hamden High is on the schedule Friday at 4:30 and West Haven High will be in Baker rink Saturday at 2.

TIME FOR A CHANGE?

PHS Coach Thinks So. "I think we'll change our style a little bit," reported Tony Borzak, Princeton High School basketball coach, after Ewing had tagged the Little Tigers with their second straight last-minute defeat on Friday.

"We're going to cut out running," said Tony. "When you run and you're not a running team, you make a lot of mistakes."

"I thought it out and I don't think we're suited for a running game," added Borzak. "We need better if we played a more deliberate game, set up our patterns and played for each basket."

The next team to encounter a new offense will be the Blue Devils, which the Little Tigers will oppose Friday evening at 8 at the Monmouth College school. PHS met Hamilton High at home Tuesday afternoon, for a report of that contest see page 26. Tuesday afternoon, the Blue and White will get a second chance to even accounts with Ewing Friday's tormentor. The 3:30 contest will be played at Ewing. In the light of its having squandered seemingly safe margins in its last two outings, the name Princeton will recall similarly unpleasant memories for the Blue and White. Last year, PHS lost only three games. Its first defeat was administered by an underdog Princeton. The pattern was the same: Princeton blowing a comfortable lead and losing on a buzzer shot.

After having given up an 11-point lead with three minutes to play the week before at Sumnerville to culminate a 5-2, seven-game road trip, the Little Tigers did it again Friday evening. To the dismay of the home town fans, PHS failed to protect a six-point advantage at enjoyed at the start of the final period and bowed to the Blue Devils, 60-56. It was the visitors' second victory in 10 games and at Princeton's third defeat in nine.

"They were bound to sit on someone," said Borzak. "Their last four games had been very close, they were pushing all the way and they had to get somebody. It was just unfortunate they had to pick on us."

team started as though it were back at Swamp. The visitors and hand them their eighth consecutive defeat. With Hank Schmidt pouring in most of the points, PHS streaked to an early 13-3 lead. Ewing failing to make a basket until 4:30 had elapsed Schmidt accounted for half of Princeton's 36 points in the opening quarter.

At the start of the second period, the Blue Devils began to peak at Princeton's lead. With a minute to go, Ewing climbed to 20-17 in two points, 26-24, and tied it up with 20 seconds remaining on Bob Dufalo's layup.

The Little Tigers returned from their dressing room and proceeded to outscore the Devils, 20-14, in the third stanza. But again they were unable to protect their lead. With four minutes remaining, Ewing had tied it up, 48-45.

The teams exchanged baskets four times to stay deadlocked at 50-48. PHS remained, PHS then called time out, planning to hold ball and try for one final shot. Instead, victory, "it seemed like the road fell in," said Borzak.

A pass to John Kowalski misfired, Ewing recovered, and went ahead by two on Dufalo's layup. Princeton's chance to tie it up evaporated when Larry Madden's jump shot missed and Ewing recovered with 23 seconds left. The visitors' Bob Terlecki put the game out of reach with his 18th and 19th points.

"It was just one of those things," commented Borzak, in recap. "You set up a play but it just doesn't go the way you plan it. You're dealing with humans and there is room for error over which you have no control."

Borzak admitted that the recent games have been hard on the team. "They'll bounce back, though," he said. "They'll be okay. It's just another game to us. We'll win some more before the season is over. When I look at the Sunday paper and see that 150 schools have played, I notice that 75 of them were defeated. That's the breaks of the game."

High scorer for PHS again was captain Hank Schmidt with 15. Kowalski, whom Borzak said was "getting better all the time," added 13 and teammate Larry Madden, 12. Both schools registered 23 baskets; PHS was 10 for 15 from the free throw line.

E.T.S. IS BLOCKED

In Bid For Tie, Sannino A.C. turned back Educational Testing Service, its closest pursuer in the YMCA Research and Industrial League, last week to retain undisputed first place.

The 60-34 defeat dropped ETS to a second place tie with RCA Labs.

In other games, RCA Labs advanced by defeating McGraw Hill, 64-44, and Food Machinery & Chemical halted Princeton Hospital, 38-17, in a battle between the ill-enders. RCA Astro averted an upset when it held back steadily improving Post Office to win, 55-51.

To check the high-scoring Sannino squad, E.T.S. attempted to slow down Princeton's playing control ball. Its strategy worked—for a time—but, led by Carl Belt who connected for 14 points, Sannino pulled away in the second half. Al Meyers was high for the losers with 10.

Jim Clark tallied 29 points in capture the week's scoring honors in leading RCA Labs to its victory over McGraw Hill while Fred Swartz hit for 18 in a losing cause. The 22-point effort of Jack Fields paced Astro over Post Office.

Sports In Princeton

School, Clearcut High School and the Princeton University freshmen have fallen before the Red and Black fencers.
The foil squad is led by Donald and Ted Sieja, both members of the Junior Olympic Squad. The boys' father, Stan Sieja, fencing coach at Princeton University, instructs them. The squad thrives three times a week and is largely responsible for the enthusiasm and rapid ascendancy in the sport.

Behind Ted and Don—Don is favored to repeat as the individual state titlist—in the foil are Lincoln Young, number three; Peter Hood of Princeton, number four; and Ray Soldavini, also a young Olympian. The leading sabre competitor at Hun is Princeton's J. J. Smith. Others on the team are Steve Goldsmith, John Taylor and Jack Butler.

Hun's capturing of the state title last year is all the more remarkable in the light of the fact that it was only its third year of competition. The Red and Black was second best in the state after two years of intercollegiate competition. Donald Cantrell, a member of the faculty and a fencer himself, served as the coach. The Red and Black has excellent facilities and a small enrolment, over 30 boys are candidates for the squad each year.

Y BASEBALL DINNER SET

For February 11. The issuing of awards and speaker Bennie Bengough, a coach for the Philadelphia Phillies, will feature the Princeton YMCA's 13th annual dinner for Midget and Junior baseball players and fathers to be held February 11 at the Y building on Avalon Place.

Members of the Palmer Square Giants, World Series champions; Nassau Oil Tigers, American League champions; and Lewis E. Bowers, Junior League champions, and team managers will receive trophies. The organizations supporting the teams will receive awards as sponsors. Robert C. Decker, baseball commissioner, has announced that the deadline for dinner reservations is February 7.

SWIM TEAM AT HOME

Larries Liebealen, Lawrenceville's swimming team, undefeated in six meets, will face Haverford School Saturday at 3 a. Lawrenceville.

It will be the first meet for the Red and Black mermen since January 19 when they recorded a 50-45 victory over Mercersburg Academy. Fans will have an opportunity to see freestyle record-holder Phil Riker and Larrie captain Russ Kintner in action. Both boys have turned in fine performances all season long.

The hockey team, which registered its first victory in seven games just before the break for mid-year exams, will face West Haven High School on Friday at 3:30 on Lavinio Run. The skaters were scheduled to play Hill School at Pottstown, Pa., on Wednesday.

On Saturday, the hockey team will face Hamden High School at 3:30 p.m. in another home game.

The basketball team will play Blair Academy at Blairstown on Saturday. Mark Haley and Mike San Phillip have led the Larrie quintet to a 5-2 record so far.

BOWLING NOTES

Basile Breaks Tie, Mike Basile won two out of three games last week to take undisputed possession of first place in the Individual Classic League with a 33-18 record. Guido Zinetti trailed Basile by a game and Joe Baidino, first for the top position a week before, went winless and dropped two games off the pace.

The next morning for breakfast in Rome how about suppo d'arancia (orange juice), prosciutto (ham), uova (eggs) pane abruzzese (toast) and cafe (coffee).

For lunch in Spain try queso (cheese), sopa (soup), pan thread) and mantecado (a butter) and Te (tea). Now let's wind up the weekend with dinner in Lisbon. We'll have sopa (soup), frica (chicken), carne de vaca (veal), batata (potatoes), hortelã (vegetables) with queijo (cheese) and cafe (coffee).

Incidentally, if you wear a size 12 dress around here you'll ask for a size 38 in Ireland, a size 14 in Britain or a size 46 on the continent.

If your shoe size in this country is a woman's size 6 1/2, you'll wear a size 5 in Ireland or Britain and a size 37 on the continent!

See you next week!

MIHAN BUYS BUILDING
English Shop to Expand
Eric Mihan, owner of The English Shop at 32 Nassau, has purchased the building next door to his clothing shop and will expand so that his store extends all the way to the corner of John and Nassau Street.
Mr. Mihan bought the building from Management Audits, Inc. with Karl M. Light, real estate agent handling the transaction. It was the second largest in less than a month for the building, which has been in a state of suspended animation for some time. On January 2, Jackson Martindell of Management Audits, Inc. bought the building from the estate of Joseph Sipley. The Light real estate firm handled this purchase, also. The structure houses Honora's Barber Shop and the vacant premises formerly occupied by Langrocks.

Mr. Mihan said this week that he plans to renovate the entire building completely, remodeling the ground floor to give an additional square foot area in excess of 3,000. It has not yet been determined what will happen to the barbershop and to John's Shoe Repair, which is on John Street at the rear of the building.
Mr. Mihan also said that he will probably retain the second and third floor office space for his own use, although there are no definite plans as yet.
The English Shop was established 11 years ago by Mr. Mihan at 29 Palmer Square. Prior to that, Mr. Mihan had operated the Student Tailor Shop in the basement of Murray-Dodge. It has occupied his present store at 32-34 Nassau for the past five years. According to his plans as announced this week he hopes, that his expanded store will be finished by August or September.

NEW DIRECTORIES DUE
From Telephone Co.
The 1963 Princeton telephone directory will be distributed beginning Friday to approximately 23,000 locations. The format has been changed from year to year's "Suburban Trenton" to list to the Princeton directory. It includes additional alphabetical listings in a Suburban Trenton section.

Following the Princeton and Suburban Trenton yellow pages, there is a Trenton alphabetical listing section. The Princeton and Suburban Trenton listings have increased from 27,000 to 28,200.

The directory cover shows points of interest in the state including High Point Monument and Cape May Light, as well as the variety of industry in New Jersey from shipbuilding to farming.

The information section has been expanded to include additional facts on local and long distance dialing, with a larger list of area codes for Direct Distance Dialing.

A list of central telephone offices is given showing both all-number calling seven numerals and name and numeral (two letters and five numbers) combinations. The All-Number codes are being introduced throughout the Bell Telephone System to provide additional exchanges.

CONTROL IS EFFECTIVE

As PHS Wins Seventh
Coach Tony Borzok decided to slow down his Little Tigers and play control ball paid off in the final test as the Princeton High School basketball team defeated Hamilton here Tuesday night, 47-36. It was Princeton's seventh victory in the season.

Employing a weave to keep possession of the ball until it could set up its pattern, the Rue and Winslow countered the visitors 13-7 in the first period and upped its margin to a commanding 31-14 lead at the half. "We slowed down and forced them to play our type of ball and it paid off," Borzok said.

PHS center John Kowalski, a plus factor for the victors under the banner whom Borzok labeled as "the most improved ball player in Mercer County," led all scorers with 15. Captain Hank Schmidt with 10 points was the only Little Tiger to hit double figures.

News Of The CHURCHES

MESSAGES SPONSORED
By Church of Christ, The Princeton Church of Christ is sponsoring a series of 12 religious messages in TOWN TOPICS. The first, entitled "Which Is Your Altitude Towards The Bible?" appears on page 20.

Subsequent messages to appear intermittently during the coming year, include such topics as "The Lord's Forgiveness Prayer," "The Bereans Did Their Own Thinking," "Who Is A Christian?" "The Church Really Important?" "Shackled By Religious Creeds?" and "A Striking Contrast: New Testament Christianity vs. Denominationalism."

Five messages center upon the understanding of spiritual truths: "Crushing Pearls," "Understanding Christ on Obedience," "Misunderstanding Christ on Baptism," "Misunderstanding Christ on Church Membership," and "Misunderstanding Christ on the Lord's Supper."

The Church of Christ, which meets in the Shrine Club on River Road, believes that "the confusion of the religious world today is far different from the unity enjoyed by the early Christians, before traditionalism and distinctive named divided men. Believing such loyalties to be contrary to the Scriptures, we have no sectarian organization or name, doctrine, or creed. Our authority is divine authority vested only in the inspired Scriptures. Thus, following the teachings of Christ and His apostles, we are simply Christians. It is the only name by which we are known."
